NN Art Award

The NN Art Award is an incentive prize for talented artists who have completed their education in the Netherlands and demonstrate authentic and innovative craftsmanship. Participating galleries at the fair nominate one of their artists. The jury then determines the 4 nominees. In the run-up to the Award Ceremony, they will explain their work via Instagram videos and the weekly GalleryViewer podcast. Finally, the winner will receive the incentive prize of €10,000. NN Group will also purchase a work from one of the nominees for the NN corporate collection.

Jury NN Art Award 2020

The jury this year consists of Sofía Hernández Chong Cuy (director Witte de With Center for Contemporary Art, Rotterdam), Sietske van Zanten (director LAM Lisse), Katja Mater (visual artist), Jan Pieter Ekker (art director Het Parool) and Els Drummen (curator NN Group Art Collection).

NN Art Award 2019

Last year, the winner of the NN Art Award was Katja Mater (Galerie Martin van Zomeren). With the incentive prize she was able to realize the Dare not|Read On film installation. According to Mater, the importance of the prize cannot be underestimated: "Winning the NN Art Award partly generated a very busy year with great projects. For my exhibition at P/////AKT, I made the film Dear Sides, a follow-up to Dare not|Read On. This solo exhibition feels like an important step within my work and has been very well received."
